Your Bios Urn - a catalyst for life

What is a Bios Urn?

A Bios Urn is a biodegradable urn that enables you to plant and grow a tree or flowers using the ashes of a loved one. As the Bios Urn is 100% environmentally friendly it can be planted anywhere – in a Memorial Park, outside in your garden, or in a plant pot inside your home.

The award-winning Bios Urn is the world's first patented biodegradable urn and is made from coconut shell, compacted peat and cellulose, without harmful chemicals or glue.

How does it work?

The urn has two separate sections: a bottom section for the ashes, and the top section where you plant your seedling. The urn is made with a special growth medium to help the plant grow. When the urn is buried the seedling grows in the top section and its roots grow down through the ashes, as the Bios Urn biodegrades.

No expiration date

Full seed compatibility

100% biodegradable

Is it easy to use?

It is very straightforward to use and your Bios Urn comes with clear instructions. Simply plant your seedling in the urn, and then plant the urn straight into your garden or a plant pot. With some simple care, your seedling will grow into a healthy living memorial to your loved one. You can create a multi-generational memorial by using plants that self seed. As the Bios Urn has no expiry date, you can use your Bios Urn whenever you are ready, using recent or old ashes.
